In statistics, the standard deviation (SD, also represented by the lower case Greek letter sigma σ or the Latin letter s) is a measure that is used to quantify the amount of variation or dispersion of a set of data values. A low standard deviation indicates that the data points tend to be close to the mean (also called the expected value) of the set, while a high standard deviation indicates ...

Notice, of course, these are simply the numbers squared. By default the prefix p in front of a density in R gives the distribution function (pbeta, pnorm, pgamma). If you want the survival function values, you could always subtract by one, or give the argument lower.tail = FALSE as an argument to the function, which asks R to calculate the upper area instead of the lower.
